

FIVE LOSE LIVES WHEN PLANE FALLS IN SEA

SEAPLANE COLUMBUS IS WRECKED AND SUNK 21 MILES OFF HAVANA

Ferry Boat Henry F. Flagler Picks up Five Survivors of the Wreck—True to Traditions of the Sea, Women are Rescued First and the Pilot is the Last to Leave the Plane

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 13.—The Henry M. Flagler arrived here at 9 o'clock tonight with the five survivors of the seaplane Columbus which was wrecked and sunk 21 miles northwest of Havana at 2 o'clock this afternoon, carrying four of its passengers to their death.

Those who lost their lives were:

Edward F. Atkins, Jr., 30, New York capitalist.

Miss Grace McDonald of New York, nurse, and Mrs. Atkins' two children, Edward F. III, 5, and David, 3.

Mrs. Atkins, Pilot W. E. Miller, Miss Julia Haverty of New York, Otto Abraham of New York, and the mechanic, Harold Thomason, were rescued.

Captain John Albury of the Ferry Boat Flagler saw the seaplane fall when he was about three-fourths of a mile distant and immediately turned his ship towards it. The seas were running high and several attempts had to be made before a life boat could be landed. Mr. Atkins and Miss McDonald were swept off the wreckage to which they were clinging before the life boat could reach them. The two children who were asleep in the cabin are believed to have been killed instantly when the wreckage was carried on top of a huge wave and catapulted into the middle of the next wave nose first.

IMPORTS SHOW AT INCREASE IN FIRST MONTH OF TARIFF

Valued at $319,000,000, Largest Since November, 1920

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—October, the first complete month in which the new administration tariff law was operative, witnessed a continuation of the increase in imports of merchandise into the United States according to the first official figures for the month on the incoming foreign trade.

The statistics, made public today by the department of commerce fixed the value of October imports at $319,000,000, the greatest monthly total since November of the banner year, 1920, despite the higher rates of the new law. The report was declared by officials to be convincing evidence of the upward trend of incoming trade. It reflects also, it was said, a generally improved business condition at home and abroad and warrants the statement that the requirements of the American people for such foreign merchandise as they demand is being satisfied regardless of what was described by those to the administration bill in the congressional debates as a tariff barrier.

No official comment came with the publication of the figures except a brief statement that scattering details with customs receipts for the month covered indicated the increase in importations had been general. It was added that the increase was not confined to any one country with which American foreign trade is of consequence.

FIXES INCOME OF BREAD WINNER

(By The Associated Press)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 13.—The income of the bread winner of a family should be a laborer with a wife and one child to support, should not be less than $125 and should be a clerk with the same size family not less than $175 per month under existing conditions in California, if the workers and their dependents are to be able to live on what cost of living investigators call the "minimum of health and comfort level," according to a cost of living survey prepared for the state civil service commission and made public today. The investigations covered selected family groups and are intended primarily for study and comparison with wage schedules now in effect in the government.

RECOUNTING OF BALLOTS BEGINS MONDAY MORNING

Senate Committee to Settle MacPherson-Marks Case

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 13.—A recount of the ballots in the senatorial election contest of Norman G. MacPherson against Adolph Marks is scheduled to start Monday morning in Chicago when a senatorial committee headed by Chairman Jewell will open the ballot boxes and check the figures of the election and canvassing board officials.

With this action preceding the opening of the house Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock but little of legislative interest was anticipated here tonight. The senate will not convene for business until Tuesday, January 23.

The election returns in Chicago gave Mr. MacPherson the office but the state canvassing board later ruled that certain illegal ballots were found in various precincts and their decision gave Mr. Marks the senate seat.

During the past week the senatorial fight up over the appointment of Governor Small and the announcement in the house by Representative Igou, Chicago, Democrat, that he intended to offer impeachment resolutions against Governor Small, Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling and State Auditor Andrew Russell were the most important developments. In all 16 bills have been presented in the senate and thirty eight in the house.

The fight over the confirmation of the governor's list of 101 appointments finally ended with the senate forces counting but three dissenting votes after certain senators expressed their disapproval of a number of individual appointees.

The impeachment resolutions have been asked of the legislative reference bureau by Representative Igou. It will be some time before they are completed he believes he said at an opportune time. The impeachment charges will be based on civil and criminal proceedings taken against the three state officers and on the action of the governor and state auditor in the Marks-MacPherson election contest.

Amendments to Election Laws.

Amendments to state election laws particularly as they apply to primary elections will be offered during the house session by Reed F. Cutler, Republican, Lewistown, in the near future, accompanied by two other bills involving legal procedure, he stated.

Judges and others of his district have urged him to promote some legislation referring to various legal acts, one in particular which does not permit a man or woman to testify against each other nor for each other but at the same time, Mr. Cutler points out the testimony of blood relatives such as a person's parents or grandparents. While this may appear to be a legal technicality, he says, to the attorneys and judges of the state the matter is regarded as vital in legal procedure in many cases.

He will introduce a bill empowering judges of county courts to determine an attorney's fees on real estate and land sales. The county judges, he says, at this time do not have this power, but instead it is allotted to circuit judges. Cases are often taken to the supreme court he explains to determine upon an attorney's fees. In the case of an orphan, of minor age, he says the attorney cannot legally enter into a contract regarding his fees and where there is no guardian, the court must name the fee. It is his idea to legally give this power to county judges.

The legislative reference bureau is preparing the bills and assembling data for his primary election amendment. He will attempt to eliminate the conflict of dates regarding primaries throughout the state, and to make them consistent.

With the senate approval of two bills appropriating $50,000,000 of money now available from $60,000,000 bond issue it is believed the hard roads work will be pushed by the legislative bodies during the coming weeks of the session. Contracts may be let as soon as the money is provided.

ONE MAN IS KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED

Toledo, Jan. 13.—One man was killed and several injured when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train running on the Pere Marquette tracks, crashed into the rear of a freight train one mile north of the Ohio-Michigan state line at 10 a. m. today.

German Miner Owners Want Cash Payment

(By The Associated Press)

ESSEN, Jan. 13.—M. Coste, French inspector general of mines and head of the industrial mission in the Ruhr today assented in principle to the German mine owners demand for cash payments on coal deliveries to France and Belgium and the owners expressed their readiness to resume deliveries Monday if satisfactory terms were arranged with the individual mines.

The mine owners demand 50 per cent cash payments every ten days, the balance being payable within three days after accounts for deliveries are given.

The situation was discussed at a conference at which approximately 25 directors representing 12 mines on both sides of the Rhine were present as well as the allied commissioners and civilian engineers.

Obviously referring to the removal of the coal syndicate, M. Coste opened the sitting by asking why the mine operators had changed a system of long years standing. The question was not answered and Fritz Thyssen, brother of August Thyssen, speaking for the directors present called attention to General Devises' announcement at yesterday's conference that the orders of the Berlin government no longer applied to the Ruhr district. Herr Thyssen declared that the German law still governed the Ruhr and as the federal commissioner had ordered that no more payments should be made by Germany for reparations the coal mines could not make deliveries.

M. Coste replied that he was not empowered to discuss the question of rights and demanded resumption of the shipments.

Herr Thyssen said it would be impossible to make deliveries unless payments were provided for the workmen's wages, but the Germans were ready to discuss deliveries on cash payments.

M. Coste said they would be paid for as heretofore and a long discussion on the significance of this phrase ensued. The directors then presented a statement in which they announced their readiness to make deliveries to France and Belgium if paid in cash according to sales prices fixed by the National Coal association provided no conditions to the contrary were prescribed by the federal coal commissar.

M. Coste agreed in principle to cash payment but insisted that the past deficit in Germany's deliveries must be made up.

HELICOPTER MADE FLIGHT AT M'COOK FIELD IN DECEMBER

Claim That Successful Flight Will Revolutionize Flying

(By The Associated Press)

DAYTON, O., Jan. 13.—A successful flight of a helicopter machine which rises vertically and descends in the same manner, has been made at McCook field here it was officially announced today. The flight made December 18 at the experimental base of the army air service lasted one minute and 40 seconds. The helicopter rose six feet from the ground.

Successful operation of the machine was said would revolutionize flying making it possible to take off and land on a small field.

The machine, the flight of which is declared successful is the invention of Dr. George Bothezaat, a Russian who has been conducting experiments at McCook field for eighteen months. The Dr. Bothezaat helicopter is original in design in no way conflicting with models experimented with in various degrees of success in foreign countries.

McCook field officers and scientists say they are not discouraged over the shortness of the first flight, pointing to the fact that the machine worked properly in principle and that the first airplane flight was of short duration.

MR. SQUIGGINS IS GOING TO BE PAID

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 13.—Abner Lee Squiggins of Worthington, Mass., whose letter to Jefferson Davis addressed as president of the confederacy and containing a Georgia confederate war bond of $500, with a request that President Davis pay the amount of the bond and accrued interest, was forwarded yesterday to Attorney General Napier here with his request complied with.

Attorney General Napier today prepared a registered letter to be forwarded to Mr. Squiggins—if Mr. Squiggins can be located—which will contain $500 in currency, the amount of the bond and accrued interest, but the currency is confederate currency.

Though Georgia is not bound to redeem her confederate war bonds, Attorney General Napier declared today he had made up his mind that "no citizen of Massachusetts could ever say of Georgia that she allowed even the dead ashes of an obligation to go unrequited."

NEW CONFERENCE IS BEING CONSIDERED BY FRENCH PREMIER

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Unofficial intimations from Paris that the Poincare ministry is considering a call for a new reparations conference created interest in government circles here also it was said definitely that no hint of such a development was given in state department advice. The Paris dispatches referring to the possibility of a conference followed an authoritative disclosure here that administration officials viewed the Hughes commission suggestion as still alive and before the French and other allied governments.

Whether unofficial talk in Paris points to a possible resort to the principle advanced by Mr. Hughes is not known. It is generally assumed in view of the tone of today's report from the Ruhr as to the difficulties surrounding the task before the French technical forces there, that economics rather than politics must be the basis of any new conference approach to the crisis.

That would be wholly in line with the Hughes suggestion.

It goes without saying that the nature and scope of any future steps to restore allied solidarity as to the course to be followed with respect to Germany depends almost entirely on the turn of events in the Ruhr region. This has been emphasized in all reports reaching the Washington government from its own agents abroad.

HUGHES TO VISIT SOUTH AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Secretary Hughes expects to visit South America at the time of the Pan-American conference in March at Santiago, but will not serve as one of the delegates representing the United States in the conference negotiations.

While Secretary Hughes feels unable to remain away from this country long enough to serve as delegate to the conference, it was said today at the state department he plans to visit other South American cities, including Buenos Aires, Argentina, Montevideo, Uruguay and Lima, Peru.

It is not likely that he will spend more than a few days at Santiago. The personnel of the delegation to the Pan-American conference is expected to be named soon.

REICHSTAG VOTES ITS APPROVAL OF GOV. ACTION

One Leader Says Germany at Entrance to Very Dark Tunnel

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—By an overwhelming vote of 283 to 12 the reichstag today registered its approval of the government's attitude toward the Franco-Belgian invasion of the Ruhr, thus according the non-partisan cabinet, headed by Chancellor Cuno, parliamentary support of sufficient caliber to assure it freedom of so far as the consent of the political parties is concerned.

Despite the unanimity of national sentiment which is being vouchsafed the government, the situation growing out of the presence of armed French forces in parts of Germany previously unoccupied, is considered a serious one and nothing is suggested as to what line of further action is at the government's disposal. The feeling in political circles in this connection was reflected in an expression by a well known Democratic leader who said tonight: "Germany has arrived at the entrance to a dark, a very dark tunnel."

He referred not only to possible reaction from Paris to the German official attitude the German government considering the treaty of Versailles abrogated but also was of the opinion that the international situation was fraught with grave danger. Since the coal syndicate eliminated itself from the further control of the Ruhr mines output, the independent owners and operators have tacitly agreed to supply France and Belgium against cash payments, as they are no longer able to hold Germany financially accountable for their deliveries. Official quarters are not intervening in this situation in as much as it was not certain in Berlin tonight that the French authorities in the newly occupied territory.

Just how the government is giving serious consideration to the adoption of emergency economic measures calculated to meet the sudden turn in the situation thruout Germany, without anticipating diplomatic and foreign economic ramifications which may become urgent issues at an early date.

Today's session of the reichstag took on an aspect of pronounced gloom as the chancellor's statement failed to strike the inspiring note which the deputies and crowded galleries expected.

Chancellor Cuno liberally amplified his previous presentation of the legal aspects of the Ruhr invasion and its relation to the treaty.

The party leaders who followed him also failed to lift the debate out of the atmosphere of perfunctory protest.

POKER PLAYER HELD FOR DEAD MAN'S HAND

Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 13.—"Holy Moses, a royal flush," exclaimed Charles Hass while at the home of a friend playing poker this afternoon. He had discarded two cards and picked up a Jack and Ten of Spades filling out a premier hand. As he reached for the chips he fell dead of a paralytic stroke.

Hass had been in apparently good health and had eaten a hearty dinner before going to the home of his friend.

WITNESS NAMES HIS BROTHER AS MEMBER OF KIDNAPING CREW

Another Man Tells of Wanting to Sell His Farm and Seek More Peaceful Locality—Captain Skipwith Cancels His Proposed Conference With Attorney General Cocco

(By The Associated Press)

BASTROP, La., Jan. 13.—Testimony of the three witnesses—one naming his brother as having been recognized as a member of a black-hooded kidnaping band, another telling of having been seized and lectured by the "black-hoods," and the third telling of his anxiety to leave the community because of Ku Klux Klan activities—with the collapse of plans for a conference between Attorney General Cocco and Captain J. K. Skipwith, Klan leader, were today's high spots of interest in the state's investigation of masked band depredations in Morehouse parish.

Fred Cobb, who hails from Texts, where he says, "men fight square," told of being seized by five hooded men, one of whom he declared was Laurie Calhoun, named by other witnesses as a Klansman. Cobb said he was taken to a woods and given a lecture by the men who accused him of misconduct.

Walter Campbell, town marshal and superintendent of the light and water plant of Mer Rouge, named his brother, A. L. Campbell, as having been recognized by Thomas F. Richard, kidnaped and slain with Watt Daniel August 24, as having been a member of a black hooded kidnaping party which stalked the roads about Bastrop a week previous to the disappearance of Richard.

The kidnaping and slaying of Richard and Daniel culminated in the present investigation.

Leon Braddock added pathos and a dramatic scene to the day's proceedings.

Braddock, a farmer, who said he has lived all his life in this section and by the "sweet" of his bow have secured a home, a farm of 80 acres, seven mules and an automobile, told of his anxiety to sell his property at a reasonable price and leave to seek more peaceful fields for himself and his wife and four children.

This he said is due to a raid made on his home by unmasked men, led by Captain Skipwith, who accused him of making liquor.

Just as state's attorneys were about to name the hour for the conference requested by Captain Skipwith to discuss Ku Klux Klan affairs the Klan leader announced this afternoon to The Associated Press that as far as he was concerned there would be no conference.

Captain Skipwith said the drawing of his request for an interview with Attorney General Cocco was due to state's attorneys placing witnesses on the stand to dig into the activities of the Klan.

If they care to go about in this manner, I can see no good to be derived from a conference with Mr. Cocco," said Captain Skipwith.

Mr. Cocco declined to comment on Captain Skipwith's decision than to say that his withdrawal has not brought any action by any members of his staff.

Klansman and Proud of It.

Preceding Campbell, Braddock and Cobb on the stand was A. L. Smith, whose decision that "I am a Klansman and I am proud of it," brought forth a round of vigorous applause from the spectators who were subsequently warned by the court to refrain from any further outburst.

Mr. Smith, a stately old Louisiana, said he was president of the board of education of Ouachita Parish and was willing to give any assistance toward the state's investigation. The witness told of the kidnaping of Daniel, Richard, Harry Neel, J. L. Daniel, W. C. Andrews and "Tot" Davenport, having been reported to him, with a report that Hugo Davenport, a member of one of the oldest Morehouse Parish families, "was the brains behind the plot," to assassinate Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, now under bond on an affidavit charging murder of Daniel and Richard.

Mr. Smith said that if the reports were true he believed the Davenport family would be involved in a feud.

To avoid this he hurriedly informed the Davenports and a conference was arranged between citizens of Mer Rouge, Bastrop, Monroe and the leaders of the Morehouse chapter of the Klan. He said the conference was for the purpose of restoring peace and harmony in Morehouse and to clear the Davenports family name. The witness said Hugo Davenport was exonerated by the Klan. He "old of the various discussions during the conference and laid emphasis on what Dr. McKoin, who was present, had to say.

After having said Dr. McKoin (Continued on Page Four.)

PUBLIC CAN HAVE BITUMINOUS COAL AT FAIR PRICES

Must Prevent Union from Calling Nation Wide Strike

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Bituminous coal in adequate quantity and at fair prices can always be supplied to the American public, the coal commission was told today by owners of the principal non-union mines in West Virginia territory if only the commission can "arrange to prevent, forever, the union from calling a nationwide strike."

Seven associations of operators in West Virginia whose mines have been continuously at work during recent labor controversies which tied the unionized mining territory declared in the memorial which unofficially asserted that union activities were the chief cause of disturbance in coal supply and market prices.

Operators in the union fields competing with the non-union producers the memorial said had joined the union in its endeavors to bring about extension of the union control of workers in West Virginia.

Further the union was declared to have proceeded to its organization efforts in the state with a series of crimes against persons and property with out any parallel.

A record of dynamiting of mine entries of killings and of mass attacks in non-union territory along with the aftermath of legal prosecutions was given the commission.

"The United Mine Workers of America is frankly and fully committed to the theory of a monopoly of mine labor in all the coal mines of the United States," the non-union operators said in completing the survey.

WOMAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

(By The Associated Press)

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 13.—Clara Elizabeth Skarin was acquitted of the murder of Ferdinand Hoch-Brunn by a superior court jury this afternoon.

Miss Skarin while awaiting the verdict of the jury, showed a heavy nervous strain. At the words "not guilty" she recovered her pose, jumped to her feet, her face broke into a smile and she seized her attorneys by the hands. She then shook hands with the jurors and with a crowd that flowed about her.

The jury was out two hours and a half. Three ballots were taken. The four women on the jury were for acquittal thruout.

A THOUGHT

Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise, let him become a fool that he may become wise.—1 Corinthians 3:18.

Man's chief wisdom consists in being sensible of his follies.—Rochefoucauld.

David F. Houston, who was secretary of agriculture and later secretary of the treasury in the Wilson administration, pays a warm tribute to the results of Republican administration. He was in Savannah, Georgia, recently, and while there gave an interview in which he declared that "a tour of the south reveals no evidence of hard times," and he was also quoted as saying that "conditions are far superior in most ways over the conditions of four years ago."

Four years ago we were in the height of war time prosperity—the prosperity of which the Democrats boasted in their effort to carry the election of 1918. In 1920, while the Democrats were still in power, came the deflation programme and the South claims to have been hardest hit by that fall in values. Mr. Houston's testimony as to the fine conditions existing now, only two years from the Democratic depression, will be kept in mind.

One thing is certain with reference to Illinois highways and that is a growing sentiment that the weight of loads permissible must be limited by law. There are hard roads in many localities which already show the damage done by heavily loaded trucks and unless speedy relief is given thru limitation of loads immense damage will be done to the roads that the people have paid for thru taxation.

A motor bus operating in Macon county has been denied authority to use the public highways by the Illinois public commission. The company has announced its intention to ignore the order and to carry the case to the supreme court if necessary.

The same situation relates to other motor bus companies, and it will be a matter of general interest when a court finding is made on this subject and the rights of the public and the old and new transportation companies outlined.

When authority to use the highways is refused the decision is usually based upon the theory that the transportation needs of the communities traversed are amply cared for by railroad or traction lines already in operation.

Business men of Pittsfield have shown their genuine interest in keeping the roads entering Pittsfield in good condition by co-operating with farmers in the cost of dragging them. Recently a joint meeting of farmers and business men was held in Pittsfield, where plans were worked out on a 50-50 basis for the care of these roads, and especially thru dragging they are kept in good condition.

The farmers and business men recognized that their interests were mutual in caring for these roads and so the joint plan was worked out. It is happily true that residents of cities and of communities surrounding them are coming to a clearer understanding of their interdependence, and of the mutual advantage there is in working together.

That is no mean accomplishment that Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture has made. Mr. Wallace has effected such savings in his department that he has turned back into the treasury more than $2,000,000 of the money appropriated to its maintenance. A reserve fund of a million dollars was untouched and in addition Secretary Wallace effected savings amounting to $600,000.

The example is worth while for other federal departments, and it is noteworthy that instead of impairing the work of his department Secretary Wallace has followed methods that have made it more effective.

The lower the tax rate that a property owner pays, the more fortunate he is usually accounted. Mayor Crabtree looks at the subject of taxation from another viewpoint. He believes that if taxes are honestly expended that the citizen gets more return from the investment made thru taxation than is true of any other dollars he expends.

This viewpoint is not old enough to have gained popularity but is well worth considering. The subject is presented in another column in a quotation from an address on this subject recently delivered by the Jacksonville mayor.

NEW DEPARTMENT MAY BE OF GREAT VALUE.

The establishment of a children's division among the exhibits at the county fair may prove of great educational value to the county and community. This matter should be pushed with enthusiasm by all schools in the county and every pupil should be made to feel that in bringing in an exhibit he or she is contributing something to the general knowledge of the county and its natural resources.

For example, the offering of a prize for the best collection of Morgan county soils should lead every boy in the rural districts to an intensive study of the ground from which his father reaps the crops of the farm. The student

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM
NONPRODUCERS

By Berton Braley

THE Socialists got all het up about the leisure class
Which doesn't do a lick of work yet rolls in unearned riches,
That little band of idle rich supported by the mass
Who has to toil for livelihood on farms, in shops and Gleches.

But members of that leisure class are very few and far,
It really doesn't matter much what aims they are pursuing.
The actually war-torn bunch of nonproducers are
The people working hard at things that are not worth the doing!

THE washroom boys; the checkroom girls; the doormen in
the stores;
The hatters making derby hats throughout this mighty nation;
The men who want to watch your car; the long, long-winded bores
Who make an after-dinner speech a wearisome oration;
The business men who fill their time with conferences vain,
Or write dull books about their lives—dull lives, though
somewhat checkered;
The overdriven printer-folk with livelihoods to gain,
By printing congressmen's remarks—"extended in the Record."

THESE are a few of myriads who toil and scheme and sweat
At doing wholly useless things that really do not matter,
And yet they're working hard enough, they bustle and they fret.
They use a lot of energy and make a noisy clatter.
The world would be a better place if all this busy mob
Were wadded to labor worth the while, to delving and to hewing.
(Still you and I might suddenly be looking for a job,
If no one worked at anything that wasn't worth the doing.)

of botany has a splendid chance to work out a collection of pressed flowers gathered from the county. In the collection of twenty specimens of wood grown in the county may be found an opportunity to study the timber resources, which, tho not now especially valuable, might be made so thru planting and conservation.

These are only a few of the things which children will be led to study thru the new department at the county fair. Such exhibits have proved successful in other fairs, and there is no reason why Morgan county should not make such a department serve the double purpose of bringing to light facts concerning the home territory, and of giving the children of the county a new interest in the fair. Many fine exhibits were contributed by the children last year, but with a department of their own to support, their work in the coming fair should make an even better showing.

DREAD OF MAGIC (NEA)

The safest place in the world to hide your money from thieves, outside a bank, is in a coffin. Who says so? Christopher Beck. And who's Beck? An expert on the psychology of underworld superstitions.

Beck says he doubts if there's a thief on earth who would pry open a coffin encountered during a pillaging raid. And it's a certainty that no professional burglar would go near it.

Burglars also avoid houses where they know a death has recently taken place. Like the rest of us, only more so, they recoil from death and all things connected with it.

Ed Howe, the Kansas country philosopher, once said that while all people talk too much he notices that every one grows strangely quiet as soon as the conversation drifts around to death.

A check up of police records in important cities shows that very few professional criminals "work" on the 13th day of the month. There is reason to believe that the "13" superstition started in the underworld.

Crooks are the most superstitious people on earth. They are saturated with queer beliefs in luck, omens and the like.

Few house-breakers have the courage to rob a house where they find a black cat lurking around the premises. Even more dreaded is a blind dog.

Most crooks have an unlucky number which they fear. Usually it is the number of the policeman who arrested them the first time.

Suppose a crook enters your home in the dead of night. If he finds a clock stopped, he scarcely notices it. But if the clock stops while the burglar is at work, he'll break into a cold sweat and flee into the night. This peculiar superstition probably dates back to some tragedy that overtook a famous crook while on a "job."

Minor thieves—especially pickpockets—consider it the worst of luck to steal a knife or rob a one-armed man. And nearly all crooks carry a mascot, the luckiest of which is supposed to be a ring made from a horseshoe nail. As so on, until a book could be written on the subject. Such a book should have a good sale. Professional criminals are a separate breed of animal, as different from the law-abiding as day is from night. About the only thing they have in common with the rest of us is an uneasy fear of the mysterious unknown. Hence their susceptibility to superstition.

INVITE PUBLIC TO HEAR CLUB SPEAKER
Edward Howard Griggs to Speak Under Woman's Club Auspices at Woman's College—Is Man of Rare Ability.

The Woman's Club has announced Edward Howard Griggs as lecturer for the January meeting of the club, at Music hall at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. A number of people here who have heard Mr. Griggs in other places seem to think that his ability as a lecturer cannot be compared with the average professional lecturer. His lectures are popular, but do not therefore prove uninformative to the man or woman of wide reading. The knack of being scholarly and at the same time not wearying is an art possessed by the exceptional lecturer, either in the college classroom or outside.

The Woman's club considers itself fortunate to secure this man for a single engagement, as most of his stays in cities are for a series. The topic chosen by the club from his list is the one which he himself considers his most modern and vital topic, "Lights and Shadows of the Present Era." It is probable that a positive international viewpoint will be presented in this talk as Dr. Griggs is known to have strong feelings on the part of America in the march of international events. Some of his auditors have attributed to him flashes of prophetic power.

Dr. Griggs was by invitation of Leland Stanford, Jr., the first professor of Ethics of Education at Stanford University. He served in this capacity for ten years, but left because he felt the larger field of the American public was the field in which he would do his best work. It is rare that return engagements are not immediately arranged after he has given a series.

Guest tickets may be purchased by non-members at Brown's Music Store.

Charlotte Danzig of The Press, says—"Once in a long time there is presented a theatrical offering that is truly artistic. Such an offering is "The Eternal Flame," Miss Norma Talmadge's latest and undeniably her best photodrama.

Gene Withers of The Telegram, says—"In "The Eternal Flame" the star does perhaps her best work, exceeding her splendid characterization of Moneysen in "Smilin' Through."

A Triumph Greater Than "Smilin' Through"

Yesterday Norma Talmadge's Greatest Achievement Was "Smilin' Through." Today "The Eternal Flame" Must Be Held as Its Peer.

Norma Talmadge
IN THE DRAMA MAGNIFICENT
"The Eternal Flame"

Adapted by Frances Marion from Honore de Balzac's "La Duchesse de Langeais"—Directed by Frank Lloyd
Gorgeous to behold—Yet never to be held—vivid to love, yet never to be won; pure beauty asking only the fealty of one man, but when he wagered on her faith as he would upon a falcon—exotic exile to the intrigue, glamour, scandal of France's gayest courts. They the playground, men the baubles of the glorious Duchesse de Langeais. And dimly flickered the Love-Flame, to be snuffed out by a breath—or fanned to a blast, to consume her with a passion of sacrifice, an ecstasy of love such as few women may squander on a man.

For Norma Talmadge—for the Art of the Screen—another pillar of unique achievement. Vast scenes, magnificent in investiture of color and crowd, will hold your eye—but ever holding your heart will be the glory, Romance, drama, the inaffable appeal of this wonderful woman.

FORMER RESIDENT OF WHITE HALL DIES

Death of Mrs. Mary Israel Occurred in Denver, Colo., and Interment to Be Made in White Hall—Other White Hall News

White Hall, Jan. 13.—Word from Denver today announced the death of Mrs. Mary Israel at the age of nearly 84 years. She was the widow of the late Dr. J. N. Israel, whose sudden death in St. Louis occurred 29 years ago last October, where the family resided for a few years after leaving White Hall, and where he was engaged in the electric belt business.

Mrs. Israel continued to reside in St. Louis for several years following the death of her husband, and has since made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ada Brant, in Denver, but spent much time among her children, who are Mrs. Vin Archibald and Mrs. Elizabeth Hardwick of Indianapolis and Mrs. Mary Putty of Colorado Springs and Harry Israel of Chicago.

Charles Israel of Paris, Illinois, is a step son.

The two daughters from Indianapolis arrived here today to arrange for the funeral and burial, but it is not yet known when the body will arrive. This is a pioneer White Hall family.

The Israel residence was at one time the prized home in White Hall; it was located immediately south of the Stocks hotel, and the premises afterward formed the nucleus of the present Whiteside park, having been purchased for the purpose from Mrs. F. B. Cain by the late Mrs. Seth N. Griswold.

Intelligence of the death came to Mrs. A. Nuckel, who states that she had been previously advised that the venerable lady was dangerously ill with pneumonia.

Later advices are to the effect that the remains will arrive at White Hall over the Chicago & Alton at 11:25 Tuesday.

W. A. BERRYMAN WILL TAKE UP INSURANCE

Is Closing Out Tire Business—H. J. Smith Leases Cordes Building for Millinery Store and Will Open Monday.

William A. Berryman, who has for two years been in the automobile tire and accessory business in this city, is closing out his stock and expects to enter the insurance business in the near future.

Mr. Berryman has moved from the Cordes building on South Main street and transferred his lease to H. J. Smith, who will establish his millinery store there for the present.

Within a week or ten days, or as soon as he can dispose of his stock of tires, Mr. Berryman expects to go to Peoria for a two weeks' course of training as a special agent for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. He will establish an agency in this city and work here and surrounding territory. The Massachusetts is one of the eight largest insurance companies in the United States.

Mr. Smith moved most of his stock into the Cordes building Saturday and expects to open for business Monday morning. He will continue his business along the same lines followed before the fire and will remain in the South Main street quarters until he can secure a more desirable location. The building in which Mr. Smith will renew his business is owned by M. M. Cordes, and has been erected only a short time.

WHITE HALL RESIDENCE DAMAGED BY FIRE

White Hall, Jan. 13.—The home of Mrs. Levina Peters, located on State street in the Maple Heights addition, was damaged $400.00 by fire discovered at 1:30 p. m. Friday as Mrs. Peters and her son Newton were ready to set out on an automobile trip. Sparks from the chimney ignited the roof. The fire company responded, and there was no damage to contents. The house is composed of concrete blocks, which accounts for the fact that the house is not a total loss. Nathan Rogers, assistant fire chief, sustained a sprained leg when a stairway gave way under him.

"Just one little Rose, Meester, just one little Rose!" That is the most pathetic plea ever uttered from stage or reflected from screen—Beban's plea for one solitary flower to place in the folded hands of his only little daughter as she lay dead, the victim of an automobile accident.

A picturization of the famous vaudeville sketch—and later play—that Mr. Beban has played for fourteen years. It is overwhelmingly filled with pathos, humanness, tenderness—highlighted with delicious humor—and contains a nice balance of heart interest, drama, and inimitable character which has made Beban's Pietro a beloved characterization.

Why Pearls are Rare and Costly

In the process of generation the pearl oyster is prolific, the egg product of a single oyster running into millions—the more pearl oysters the more pearls produced.

When, as in Ceylon, the government allows oyster fishing the natives rush in and mercilessly denude the beds, destroying more than are taken, and it must be remembered that the oyster takes a series of years to mature which means, as now operated that genuine pearls are and will continue "A Rare and Costly Gem."

Next week we will tell you something of the natural enemies of the pearl oyster which causes death and destruction over wide areas.

had decided to "leave Mer Rouge and burn his bridges behind him." the witness was asked whether any of the anonymous letters alleged to have been received by Dr. McKoin were discussed.
"They were not given any credence," said the witness, "because a man can write an anonymous letter to himself. It was reported that the letters were written on a typewriter in Dr. McKoin's office."
Cobb said that at the scene of the lecture he had left a pair of shoes. Several days later, he said, he wrote to Calhoun and the shoes were left at a store where his son was employed.
Braddock Tells Story.
Leon Braddock, the farmer, gripped the court room, as he drew out how happiness had been expelled from his humble home because his family believed he was a marked man. He dramatically described a raid made on his home at 1:30 o'clock in the morning, the raiding party breaking the lock on a door to gain admittance under the roof where his wife and four children were asleep. The witness named those in the party who entered his home declaring that Captain Skipwith was the leader and Marvin Pickett, "Cud" Pickett, Bert Pratt, Sam Cox, Sam Eldridge and a man who he said was named McIntosh. Several of them were armed and Captain Skipwith, he said, informed him they wanted him for "making liquor."
The witness said the band was unmasked and that he was taken to Eastrop and turned over to the sheriff. Sheriff Carpenter, he said, allowed him to spend the rest of the night in his home.
Braddock said the affair had unnerved his wife, that she was no longer happy with her surroundings and believed that an attempt would be made to kill him. He said that he felt unsafe and had decided if he could get a reasonable price for his farm he would sell and leave.
Walter Campbell in his testimony started the court by declaring that Richard had informed him his brother and Jim Tisdale were members of the blackhooded band who had kidnapped Richard on the streets of Eastrop in daylight on August 17, one week before his final disappearance. Campbell was one of the three men said to have been named by Captain Skipwith as having interfered with the operations of the Klan in Mer Rouge and was ordered exiled.

Offers to Pay $1,000
Campbell said that after W. L. Pugh consented to vouch for him in order that he might remain in Mer Rouge, he sent word to Captain Skipwith an was willing to put up $1,000 to pay for an investigation to prove his innocence of the charge that he plotted with others to kill Dr. McKoin. The physician, he said, was not accepted by Skipwith who sent word to him that he could remain unmolested.
The witness testified that he had aided Dr. McKoin to conduct an investigation after the physician had received an anonymous letter threatening him. He said that he examined all of the typewriters in Mer Rouge, including that of Watt Daniels. He said that he could find no clue but Dr. McKoin came to him later and said that the letter was written on his own typewriter, explaining that his office was never locked and that it would be easy for anyone to gain access to his typewriter.
Will B. Stuckey, Mer Rouge lawyer and former member of the Louisiana legislature, the first witness of the day, testified that Dr. McKoin, "shot up his own car to gain support of the members of the Ku Klux Klan." The former solon described himself as an opponent of the Klan.
The witness concluded his testimony by saying that Dr. McKoin had incurred the enmity of many people in and about Mer Rouge because what he termed "bull in the china shop" methods of McKoin while he was mayor.

FISH URCHIN OF SEA HAS LANTERN IN HEAD

CHICAGO—(By A. P.)—The fish urchin of the sea has a lantern hidden in its head, Aristotle's lantern it is called, and is made of forty parts. It is one of the curiosities of the deep now being shown at the A.T. Institute here in connection with the wild flower show.
There is the heliotus, or ear-shell, which shows a hermit crab, turned to pearl, concealed within the shell. The crab had crawled into the shell against the flat side of a rock with its own kind of cement. Years passed, the crab died, and was turned to solid pearl. It is said to be the only specimen of its kind in existence.
Several specimens of the chambered nautilus, the shell that inspired Holmes' famous poem, also are on exhibition. One of these shells has its side cut away so that the various chambers are exposed. The nautilus shell is another curiosity. Its inhabitant, when squeezed tightly, yields a dye known as the royal purple, having a commercial value of $200 to $300 a pound.

"Lest Haply We Drift" Presents Many Questions

(By M. H. LICHLITER)

At the Jacksonville Chautauqua last summer one of the most notable addresses delivered was that by Dr. Mellyar H. Lichliter, pastor of Central Congregational church of Newton, Mass. Dr. Lichliter's subject was "Lest Haply We Drift" and the address caused an unusual amount of discussion. The speaker used the same theme the first Sunday of the 1922 Chautauqua season at Chautauqua, N. Y.

A Jacksonville man who is a great admirer of Dr. Lichliter and who counted the address as one of especially great worth recently came into possession of the manuscript. It is reproduced herewith:

That sounds like the patter of a conservative. As if this man were saying: "Let us more ourselves, let us hold fast to tradition, let the cables break and we drift away." That, indeed, is a very familiar counsel, uttered particularly by timid souls who are fearful of change. The only thing that seems permanent to them is the Past. The voices of Yesterday speak with a greater authority than the voices of To-day. Change is an age of drift, they tell us, and its counsels are to be discarded and abiding. Stability is possible only when one is firmly tied to something that has been. Authority builds itself upon History made; chaos and confusion dwell in History making.

Is that what the text means? It is plausible enough and certainly quite orthodox. But that is not what the words mean. The truth comes out when one begins to ask searching questions about this anonymous Epistle to the Hebrews. Who were these so-called "Hebrews"? What spiritual problems were they facing? Why was the Epistle written?

Let us not confess that the questions are not easy to answer. The critical battle still rages around such matters as the date and authorship and destination of the Epistle. One must choose his interpreter, but even so, the outlook is not reassuring to our conservatives. One may dare to say that there is no book in the New Testament more liberal and progressive than this Epistle to the Hebrews.

As a matter of fact the Epistle was written to men and women who were in peril of drift. They were about to drift not away from the past but toward it. They wanted to go back and for a very definite reason. It was not the fascination of worldliness that tempted them. They were not planning to go back to paganism. They had not been pagan, they had been Jews. What disturbed them was the feeling that they were not getting out of their new religious experience enough to compensate them for leaving their old faith.

Some of us are in a position to understand their point of view. We are not, today, in the churches of our fathers. For one reason or another we have crossed denominational frontiers. It would be passing strange if, at times, we did not contrast the present with the past. We ask ourselves: "Was it wise to burn all our bridges? Do we get enough out of the new fellowship to compensate us for breaking the old home ties? What is there, after all, or such worth and significance in this new allegiance as to draw us from the training and habits of the years?"

This was precisely the problem of these Hebrew Christians. They had given up the stately worship of the Temple, for a service held in dwelling houses and almost entirely barren of ritual. Even the simple order of service in the synagogue was elaborate as compared with this drab, undramatic, almost commonplace thing. They had broken with the historic traditions of the Past, to follow a new faith which was then struggling to establish itself. It was unpopular and persecuted. What was to be found in the Gospel of Christ to compensate for this radical change? Were it not better to turn back to the historic priesthood of Judaism, to Moses and to the great prophets? They were restless, dissatisfied, inquiring and many were ready to turn back. It was to meet this drift toward the Past that the Epistle to the Hebrews was written.

The argument of the Epistle is very simple. Christianity is superior to Judaism because it offers free and unreserved access to God. The Old concealed, the New reveals the path to communion. "God having of old time spoken unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these days actually spoken unto us in His Son." Jesus is superior to the angels of the old covenant. He surpassed Moses in the reach and splendor of his leadership. He is an High Priest by Divine appointment created not by law, but by the power of an indissoluble life. "Before you turn back" the writer says to them, "think what Jesus means to you and the world. Recall the teachings that were given to you; think back to that separating crisis when you made the choice between the old and the new. Try to evaluate, in the light of all the knowledge that you have at this moment, the meaning of your present religious experience."

This is what he means when he says: "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things that were heard, lest haply we drift away from them." It is not the patter of the conservative. It is the eternal, insistent cry of the liberal in every age. What he is saying is this: "It is not the break with the past that matters; it is our failure to appreciate the significance of our own present experience in Christ."

And that, if I understand the situation at all, is precisely the religious problem of the hour. There are two things which as Christians we shall have to do very soon if we are to maintain ourselves: We shall have to define our attitude toward the Past with all its heritage of doctrine and tradition. And in the second place, we shall have to evaluate in new terms, that religious experience which is ours at this moment.

Let us take first, then, the problem of the Past. I do not mean to say that we can cut ourselves off from the past as a man flings off an outworn garment. There is something out of every yesterday which is a vital part of today and which will persist in the life of tomorrow. Dean Mathews is right when he says that "The Past is the wake of history, the argument for direction, the prophecy of an equally rational tendency in the future." No one with a shred of common sense will seek to repudiate history. But I do mean to say that we shall have to escape the tradition of the past and yet preserve its inspirations.

What we need to do is to put the past in its place. And that involves a very keen sense of perspective. May I draw one illustration which must take the place of an extended argument? Take, for example, the matter of the Creed. There are increasing numbers of us, in every communion, who cannot conscientiously recite the Apostles' Creed as a personal act of worship. What shall we do? Here, in a very concrete way, we face the problem of the Past. Here is a man who says "Repeat the Creed, but with your own mental reservations." He would commend the example of Jowett of Balliol who always began the Creed in this fashion: "I (used to) believe in God the Father Almighty." But that is an attitude rather than repugnant to an honest man of today.

Here is another man who says, "Revise the Creed. Say what you can and let all the rest go." That is very popular today. It was my privilege to hear a very gifted minister, in an ecclesiastical council called for his installation, base his personal confession of faith upon six statements of the Creed. He selected what he liked, made some very radical changes in the phraseology, and let all the rest go. Now that is not revision; that is emasculation. What he did that day was to perform a major surgical operation upon the Creed without the use of anesthetics. He simply butchered it to make a Congregational holiday.

The Apostles' Creed is too sacred a symbol of faith to be dealt (To be continued.)

WILCE DECLINES OFFER TO COACH AT WISCONSIN U

Gives Reasons for Not Accepting Job With Alma Mater

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Dr. J. W. Wilce, director of football at Ohio State University, announced tonight that he has declined a "very attractive proposal" to return to the University of Wisconsin, his alma mater, as director of football there. Dr. Wilce stated that his proposal from Wisconsin to become football director also carried with it a very desirable faculty relation and connection with the new hospital and medical school.

Five reasons were given by the Ohio State football mentor for declining the offer. They included:

That conditions at Ohio State and in Columbus and Ohio have been most congenial and that cooperation of all elements have been splendid.

A thorough belief in the future of Ohio State University and that state wide cooperation of all elements will continue changed conditions resultant from the enlarged problems and opportunities which come with the stadium.

DEFEATED OLD TIME RIVALS EASILY BY THE SCORE OF 19 TO 4

Game Was Not Interesting After the First Few Minutes of Play as the Locals Out-classed Their Opponents—Score Was 15 to 0 at Half—Waverly Scored in Last Half

Playing like champs in the first quarter Jacksonville assumed a safe lead over her old time rival, Waverly high, Saturday night and won an easy victory by a score of 19 to 4.

Jacksonville slowed down in the second quarter and in the third and fourth quarters did not show any better form than Waverly, scoring only two baskets in the second half.

Palmer Hunt was in his old time form last night. He scored four field baskets in the first half. The remainder of the game he contented himself with making the opposing team dizzy by his fast floor work. Hunt was as elusive as an eel and dodged the Waverly players almost at will. His work was easily the feature of an otherwise slow contest.

Hunter, Deatherage and Hopper scored the other points for the locals. In the closing minutes of play Coach Mitchell sent in a number of new players who were able to hold Waverly safe.

When the game started Jacksonville immediately got busy and at the end of the quarter was leading by a score of 10 to 0. Five more points were added in the second quarter, making the score at the half 15 to 0.

The guarding of Hunt and Hopper was so close during the first half that Waverly was not able to score a point.

When the second half opened Waverly started a desperate offense. Time and again long shots were tried but the Waverly men simply did not have their eye on the basket and the ball did everything but roll in.

Just before the third quarter closed Ashbaugh and Bryan managed to drop in a couple of counters which saved their team from being blanked. The locals also added one field basket in the third quarter, Deatherage making the toss.

In the fourth quarter both teams tried repeatedly to hit the hoop but many of the tries were wide of the mark while others were close but did not quite make the count. Hopper who had taken Hunter's place at center dropped in a counter in the last quarter.

There was not much for the spectators to cheer for in the second half. However, they gave Waverly a good hand when each of the baskets was made. At the final whistle members of both teams seemed glad to hear it.

Perhaps one reason for the slow game was the fact that both teams had played a hard game on Friday night. The locals lost a hard game to Taylorville and then had a long ride to get home. Waverly defeated Girard at Waverly and this also made them a little leg weary. The score:

Jacksonville	F.G.	F.T.	Ts.

Deatherage, f.	2	0	4

DAVIS CUP GAMES TO BE REPRESENTATIVE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Correspondence of the United States Lawn Tennis association indicate that the 1922 Davis cup competition will be fully representative from an international aspect as last year.

Altho those nations which entered teams 12 months ago appear certain to re-enter the classic struggle, under the new zoning system it is likely that new competitors will be encouraged to try for the trophy.

Japan already is planning the personnel of its team and competitors from Hawaii state that the name of the island territory will be found on the list when entries close on March 15.

Hawaii possessed tennis material for a strong team last season and only the unfortunate break of the draw which brought them against Czechoslovakia in the first round prevented participation.

Proposed revival of the national inter-scholastic tournament will be considered at the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association here in February, it was announced today.

Five veteran linemen must be replaced but the backfield and ends, both regulars and substitutes, will be with the squad next season. Glenn Osborn of Murphysboro, Ill., a halfback, has been chosen captain. The schedule follows:

September 29, Millikin at Decatur; October 6, Illinois college at Carthage; October 20, Parsons at Carthage; October 27, Monmouth at Carthage; November 3, Eureka at Carthage; November 10, Culver Stockton at Canton; November 17, Shurtleff at Alton; November 24, Illinois Teachers, at Macomb.

The magazine of Art and Archaeology is replete with beautiful and artistic illustrations and contains many instructive features on the subjects to which the periodical is especially devoted. The January number contains a fascinating article on the Gardens of Kashmir. The lure of the orient of the royal princes of India is expressed in every line. The illustrations bring out the artistic lines of the architecture and nothing is left undone to give the entire magazine an air of classic culture and refinement.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Baby Beef Club—Boys and girls from 10 to 20 interested in forming a baby beef club are invited to send in their names to the Farm Bureau Office. We must have at least five in a community to organize. The project will terminate at fair time.

Farm Accounting Clubs—The agricultural instructors at Chapin, Jacksonville and Waverly have enough boys enrolled for this work to make a showing at the fair. Causes of any sort must have one leader in order to thrive. These communities are fortunate in having such in the person of agricultural instructors. We hope to have some composed of boys and girls in the upper grades in the rural schools.

County Soils Committee—In addition to the executive committee, township and community chairmen, President Charles S. Black has named a county soils committee with one man in each township who holds no other office in the farm bureau. These men have been selected because they have done something with either limestone or phosphate. The members of this committee will be especially invited to take a 125 pound sack of acid phosphate and apply it to one half acre of wheat. This will demonstrate whether or not the land needs phosphate. The present members of the committee are as follows: John Adkins, L. J. Stewart, H. W. Dinwiddie, H. P. Joy, A. H. Bartelheim, J. W. Fricke, J. F. Willette, H. J. Rice, C. E. Patterson, John R. Boddy, Charles E. Drake, Otis VanWinkle, C. R. Gibson, P. J. Wolfe, C. H. Gibbs, Henry Miner, A. D. Gibson, J. H. Spencer and George Koyne.

Use of Stalk Fields—Many corn belt farmers rely almost entirely on stalk fields for the maintenance of their stock cattle and horses during the early winter months. Often the animals are turned into the stalks the latter part of October and left there until the middle of January or the first of February with little or no other feed. Obviously such a practice is detrimental to the proper growth and development of young cattle and horses which need a much more nutritious and better balanced ration than that furnished by dry or frozen, rain-leached corn stalks. Neither should pregnant cows or mares be required to exist solely upon stalk fields. Females so wintered are likely to be in a weakened condition when spring comes and therefore, suffer grave consequences at the time of parturition.

While the efforts of farmers to utilize their stalk fields with livestock are to be commended, it should be kept clearly in mind that corn stalks are neither a nutritious, highly palatable, nor well balanced feed material. Consequently, they should be supplemented with more digestible feeding stuffs that are high in protein like clover or alfalfa hay or linseed or cottonseed meal. During good weather when the animals are not stabled at night, legume hay can be hauled directly to the field and fed on the ground. About 4 to 10 pounds of hay should be fed per head depending upon the length of time the stalk fields have been pastured. If clover hay is not available, a nitrogenous concentrate should be supplied at the rate of 1 to 2 pounds per head. As soon as the field is stripped of corn, some grain or silage should be supplied along with the nitrogenous concentrate.

Stalk fields are of considerable value as an exercise ground long after they cease to furnish any appreciable amount of feed. Stock turned into such fields on bright, cold days when the ground is frozen, apparently enjoy wandering about in search of a hidden husk containing perhaps, a small nubbin or of a stray mouthful of bluegrass along the headlands. On such days shock corn or clover hay can be fed on the stalk fields as a change from the dry lot that is used when the ground is soft and muddy. R. R. Snapp, Dept. Animal Husbandry, U. of I.

Murrayville Farm Account Club—J. A. Leitze, principal of the Murrayville High school, has interested the following boys in a farm accounting club: Glen Durham, Milton Riley, Jean King, Ivan Riggs, Ralph Acres. These boys will use the farm account book prepared by the College of Agriculture in keeping the accounts on the home farm for one year.

Soils Committee Responding—The members of the county soils committee recently appointed by C. S. Black, are responding to the phosphate demonstration suggested. H. P. Joy, C. H. Gibbs and C. E. Patterson will maintain demonstration plots of wheat top dressed with acid phosphate.

Breeders Association Meeting—The breeders' association elected officers at the meeting at the farm bureau office Saturday afternoon. L. A. Reed, president; M. Greenleaf, vice president; H. E. Kltner, Secy-Treas.; J. W. Arnold, S. M. McDevitt, Howard Stevenson, J. L. Henry, Bert Way and D. T. Heimlich, directors. The directors represent heavy horses, beef cattle, swine, sheep and poultry. They decided to call a meeting of the nineteen men who are interested in the Morgan street lot for next Monday evening at 7:30.

INTERESTING FACTS

106,327 Ford Cars and Trucks Retailed in December

Approximately the same number scheduled for delivery this month

What Does This Mean?

This volume of deliveries to actual owners is entirely unprecedented for this time of the year—

It has taxed the manufacturing ability of the Ford plants working at full capacity—

It indicates a volume of business during the rapidly approaching months of "heavy demand" which will be far beyond the maximum production schedule which the Ford Motor Company has set—

And that means a Ford shortage even more acute than the one which existed last Spring and Summer.

Dealers' stocks all over the country are low—there are no reserves to draw upon to meet the demands for delivery—

There is no way in which dealer reserves can be built up, as deliveries have been made to customers as fast as Cars could be manufactured since last April.

The only way you can protect your desire to obtain prompt delivery of a Ford even at this time is to place your order immediately.

This emphasizes more strongly than anything we could possibly say the necessity of your making prompt arrangements with a Ford Dealer for the listing of your order, particularly if you are contemplating the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer.

We believe you are entitled to know these facts as they actually exist.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT IN MONTHLY REPORT

Work of County Health Department Extends to Various Localities—City Work Summarized.

The December report of the Morgan County health department has recently been completed by Dr. R. V. Brokaw, the health officer. The report indicates that the department has been quite active in both city and county during recent weeks.

It is especially interesting to note that but eighteen homes in the city remained quarantined at the end of the month, and but eight homes in the county were then under similar restrictions.

Visits were made during the month to the following schools: Trinidad, East Greasy, Hillcrest, North Oakland, The Narrows, Little Hope and Sulphur Springs. In each instance examinations of the children were made and the proper precautions taken where any contagious disease was found to exist.

In the course of the month the department was in touch with the health in each of the following communities, visits being made to each by the health officer: Alexander, Mound, Buckhorn, Arcadia, Meredosia, Murrayville, Lynnville and Franklin.

The summary of the work in the county for the month is given below:
Number of school visits..... 5
Examinations..... 79
Children excluded..... 1
Individuals quarantined..... 34
Scarlet fever..... 10
Chicken pox..... 17
Whooping cough..... 1

TAX PAYMENTS MAKE RETURNS TO PUBLIC

Payment Should be Counted an Investment Mayor Crabtree Suggested in Public Address.

The recent address by Mayor E. E. Crabtree made before the Illinois Municipal league at Evanston has been extensively quoted. Mr. Crabtree discussed in this address the question of taxes, maintaining the money citizens pays for taxes is an investment which brings splendid returns. The Illinois Journal of Commerce used the following paragraph from the address:

"There is a powerful influence which holds in its grasp and retards the usefulness of the municipal official. That influence is the state legislature. Why should the cities of Illinois today have to struggle for their very existence conducting a continued fight with the legislature for laws which will enable them to function properly—or even to exist?"

"In my experience the individual legislator is a fine man, responsive to the better things of life. Interested in his constituents, wishing to advance their condition with every step, yet on account of our unfortunate political situation he is compelled to keep his ear continually to the ground, that he may please as many people back home as possible. And what those constituents are continually calling to him is, 'Reduce the taxes.'"

"The demands of the citizens upon the municipality for service are terrific. There is only one way of meeting those demands namely, thru the purchase of service by money. Where must the money come from? From Mr. Citizen, thru taxation, direct or indirect. Then is it not logical that communities must submit to taxation or do without service?"

Taxes an Investment.

"Taxes are an investment. Investment in what? In service rendered—fire department, to protect your home against fire—police department to protect your home against lawlessness, and so on in endless chain.

"How much can one buy for sixty-nine cents? In my town he can buy fire protection that may save him $10,000—yes, $100,000. For seventy cents he can call the police. For twenty cents per capita he can be supplied with park or library privileges.

"Did you ever estimate the per capita expenditure of your city for the various branches of service? Work it out, it will be interesting. If Mr. Citizen could get this into his mind, he would be advocating the collection of more taxes for better service. Should we not begin to educate the people to notice that taxes are the parallel of profits, salaries and wages to the household?"

State Takes this Advantage.

"Here is something strange. Mr. Legislator has created, and does not hesitate to create, large sources of income aside from the general property tax for the state, such as special taxes, notably, inheritance and corporation taxes, fees and licenses money put into the treasury by the Illinois Central railroad, and so on. In 1919 the legislative appropriation for the biennium was $170,000,000, yet the general property tax was only $30,000,000. Obviously, therefore, $140,000,000 or $70,000,000 a year, were from other sources than taxation; and yet the legislature is very timid and shy at the thought of allowing any liberties to municipalities.

Cities Beg for Living Rate.

"Why should it be that for three sessions of the legislature, members of our organization have had to plead, almost on bended knee, spending money, time and effort almost beyond endurance, to sustain the corporate tax rate of $1.33? And this work must be done over again this year, or we will drop back to the old unlivable rate. It seems intolerable that the municipalities may not know from one year to the next what our corporate tax rate is to be. At the last session of the legislature our proposed bills for uniform system of accounting and for the audit by the state of the books of all officers handling public funds, were given scant consideration, and no thought of passing them out of committee.

It has seemed very difficult to get constructive and needed legislation thru the assembly. Whose fault it is? Is it ours? Ours, yes, to some extent. Are we making an effort to demonstrate to the people that their tax money is well spent that we are saving as we would save in our own business? Are we inviting the support of the thinking people?"

"Let us educate the taxpayer to realize what his money is spent for conducting ourselves in a manner that will demand his respect. Then, I believe, the municipality, with the support of public opinion, can lead the legislature into peaceful, healthful pastures of revenues. Then will the cities of Illinois, relieved from the disabilities of legislative restrictions which now hamper them, know a new era of municipal progress."

ONE OF THE LARGEST ESTATES IN OLD SOUTH NOW THING OF THE PAST

State of Louisiana Takes the Celebrated Ackland Plantations for Use in Connection with Convict Farms—Contain Lake
of the Cross Where LaSalle Landed

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, La.—Te breaking up of one of the largest estates of the old south is about to be made complete with the acquisition by the state of Louisiana of the celebrated Ackland plantations, which are to be taken under the right of expropriation for state uses in connection with the convict farms. While the breaking up of the large estates in Great Britain is a subject of frequent comment the division of the largest estates of the south has received little notice.

The Ackland plantations were part of a great estate which for many years had remained in one family. Prior to the Civil war Colonel J. A. S. Ackland, the father of William Hayes Ackland of Washington, D. C., was the owner of seven plantations in one body on the Mississippi river. The plantations surround the Lake of the Cross where the explorer LaSalle and his priests planted the cross on the discovery of Louisiana. Besides his plantations Colonel Ackland was the owner of many thousands of acres on Matagorda Bay, Texas; a town house in the city of Nashville, Tenn., and the largest stock farm in the south, six miles from Gallatin, Tenn.

In addition to these properties
he began to build in 1855 two miles from Nashville, Tenn., what he intended should be the most palatial residence in America with a ball room, picture gallery and seven conservatories, and which bore the name Belmont after the place of Portia at Padua. For many years Belmont was a show
place and even known in Europe.
It is said to have suggested the description of the home of Saint Elmo in that once popular novel.

After the death of Colonel
Mrs. Ackland, Belmont passed out of the hands of the family. It was bought by a syndicate and became one of the most flourishing of colleges for women in the south and was known as Ward Belmont college.

As a result of the emancipation
of his 1,100 slaves, Colonel Ackland was unable to carry on the immense draining systems on his cotton plantations in Louisiana.
The embankments known as levees which protected the land from overflow fell into decay and finally the advent of the boll weevil
made the culture of cotton so precarious that the land ceased to yield an income.

The state of Louisiana having
the whole convict system at its disposal will restore the drainage system and rebuild the levees.

John Hines and his daughter Helen came to the city Saturday
from Alexander.

LOCAL FIRE HEAD NOW HAS HONORARY OFFICE

Chief Samuel Hunt was elected
second vice president of the Illinois Firemen's association at the annual convention held in Dixon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Four hundred firemen from all parts of the state were in attendance and were royally entertained by the Dixon citizens. A. W. Woods, chief of the Galena fire department, was elected the new president of the association. Mr.
Thole attended the convention in Jacksonville two years ago. Chief Hunt made a business trip to Chicago before returning to this city.
The next convention of the firemen will be held at Aurora, and in 1925 the association will probably go to Decatur. Another city bidding for the convention was Murphysboro.

RECEIVES PROMOTION

F. Gregory Smith, son of Mr.
and Mrs. Fay G. Smith of 861 West State street, who has been managing a Woolworth store in Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, has been transferred to a larger store
at Waukegan, Wisconsin. Mr.
Smith has been with the Woolworth company, as manager, for only a year and his many friends
in Jacksonville will be glad to know of his promotion.

LARGE FEES ARE COLLECTED IN 1922

Secretary of State Emmerson
Shows Fees of $12,000,000—
This is $2,000,000 more than in 1921.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (By A.
P.)—Fees collected by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson during 1922, amounted to approximately $12,000,000, it was announced today. This is an increase of nearly $2,000,000 over last year and approximately $10-000,000 since 1917, the first year of the present administration.
There was an increase of 655 per cent in the earnings of the secretary of state's office from 1916 to 1922, inclusive.

The total fees collected during 1922 amounted to $11,943,376 as compared with $10,307,786 in 1921. Last year, $1,174,555 was contributed by foreign corporations, $2,812,228 by domestic corporations, $7,882,481 by automobile owners and chauffeurs, $25,306 was collected by the executive department in miscellaneous fees, $48,317 was collected by the securities department in fees from corporations having securities for sale, and $486 collected by the index department.

The greatest increase in fees
has been in automobile license fees, but large increases also have been made in other departments. For instance, corporations are now paying approximately $4-000,000 a year, whereas formerly they paid almost nothing.

Secretary Emmerson pointed out that on the basis of business handled the cost of operating the office at present is about one-third as great as formerly. While the earnings of the office have increased 655 per cent, the cost of operating has increased but a little more than 200 per cent,
practically all of which is due to the increase of automobile plates.
In 1916 only 248,000 pairs of plates were bought. Last year, 781,000 pairs of plates were purchased and in addition to paying for postage in sending them out and pay the cost of handling them and listing the licenses.

FOUR FROM COUNTY TO ATTEND STATE MEET

C. S. Black and Oscar A. Rohrer of Waverly have been named as delegates to represent the Morgan County Farm Bureau at the session of the Illinois Agricultural Institute in Chicago this week.
They are planning to leave the first of the week and stay thru
the entire period of the meetings.
George B. Kendall, the county farm advisor, and H. E. Kitzer are also intending to go to Chicago for the occasion.

HOW TO GROW CHINESE FLOWERS

Urbana, Ill. — (By A. P.)—
Chinese Sacred Lily and paper-white narcissus bulbs, planted in soil, moss, sawdust or water alone
will result in a succession of flowers, advises the horticulture department of the University of Illinois. The best method of growing is to place them in shallow bowls, surrounded by pebbles,
and then add water until one-third or one-half of the bulbs is covered.

The bowls should be placed in a cool, airy cellar or storeroom in a dim light with temperature from 40 to 50 degrees. After four weeks, or until a thick mass
of roots has formed in the water brings them into the light and living room temperature and in a short time they will bloom.

Mrs. E. D. Cully and son Harold, and W. W. Henderson were Ebenezer neighborhood people in Jacksonville yesterday.

NOTICE M. W. A. 912
All members of Camp 912 M. W. A. are urged to attend the meeting Tuesday night, January 16. Installation of officers followed by

IMPROVEMENT CAN LAST SAYS BABSON

Statistician Sees Sunshine in Opening of New Year

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Jan. 13.
—Roger W. Babson today issued the following statement in which he further discusses the points that aroused greatest interest in his "Outlook for 1923," which appeared in these columns on January 1:

"Whatever 1923 brings forth
it is starting out exceedingly well. As explained last last week, statistically business is now in a better position than it has been since October, 1920.
Taking all sections of the country and all lines of business, the Babsonchart is practically normal
today. This compares with minus 21 per cent a year ago, and minus 13 per cent two years ago,"
says Mr. Babson.

"Of course, the improvement
has been so rapid during the past few weeks that it is probably cannot hold up during the entire year
of 1923. However, most lines of business are doing well today
and we should make the best of this opportunity. Those who are not in lines which are improving
should get busy and find out why.
Certainly the ultimate consumers
of most goods are today in position to buy in reasonable quantities. Every businessman should be doing business with them and sharing their prosperity."

"The farmers are feeling better," continued the statistician,
"than they have for some years.
The value of money of the crops
just harvested is over 30 per cent greater than the value of the previous crop. The banking situation in the farming sections is liquidating. Failures are running only 400 a week compared with 500 and 600 a year ago. My records from the mail order houses
show that December has again
been a record month, and that most farmers' families had a sumptuous Christmas. This applies not only to the grain sections of the west, but most cotton sections of the south. Conditions in Texas are better than they have been for some time. Since the textile workers have returned, the cotton mills are very busy. Cotton should remain firm until we know something about next year's crop."

"The iron and steel industry is in a better condition than it has been for three years. Pittsburgh had a prosperous Christmas. Most plants are working 80 per cent of their capacity and the demand for this time of year for their products is exceptionally good.
Ordinarily many steel plants close down this season, but there is little chance of it at present.
Most railroads are buying locomotives, cars, rails and other material. Building, which is usually dull this time of year, continues to be active, and the demand for brick, lumber, and hardware is greater than ever before at this season. The demand for copper is increasing and I would not be surprised to see higher prices during the next few months. The coal industry continues to boom, and so long as the present cold weather continues, there should be no let-up in the producing end of the industry. Certain sections of the country, however, which have been suffering for lack of coal should soon get plenty. Coal prices should be lower in 1923 than in 1922.

"Foreign trade is holding up better than most people anticipated. Various reasons exist for this, but the principal one is the renewed interest which President Harding is giving in foreign affairs. The statements last week by Senator Borah should be beneficial to the foreign trade situation. Export business is dependent upon confidence. Nothing will help so much to restore our foreign trade as a feeling that England is to be kept from bankruptcy.
My financial friends have been very pessimistic over the European situation during the past few months. Reports which I have received this week in regard to Europe seem brighter and more hopeful."

"There is even a bright side to the labor situation as we begin the new year. Altho most employers believe that labor is too high and many feel that it is becoming inefficient, the fact remains that strikes are fewer.
There has not been a January for many years with so few strikes.
Apparently both capital and labor
got a good scare during the railroad strike, for certainly they both lost. As a result, both sides have since counted ten before pulling off a strike or lockout.
There is much talk about changing the immigration laws to relieve the situation. It, however, will take more than changing the quota of immigrants. The fundamental difficulty with the skilled labor situation is that the war
killed, crippled, and shocked a great mass of workers. We complain that men are anxious to be clerks instead of plasterers, but the real truth is that the physical conditions of wage workers has,
thru war and other causes, so deteriorated them that only a small proportion of the men have, today, the physical endurance to do the hard manual work."

"It therefore, will be seen that we are starting the year under very happy circumstances. The Babsonchart this week registers minus 2 per cent. Our job during 1923 will not be to open the thrifty wallet but to hold the property which we have today.
This is the task before us. To this end we must work. This means," concluded Mr. Babson
"that we must substitute service for greed, thrift for indolence, efficiency for inefficiency,
and an honest desire to give a dollar of service and material for every dollar we get. If we do this our present good conditions could continue thru 1923; but if we again get careless, business will again quickly fall off, because these better conditions cannot continue without a strong and broad foundation on which to build and grow."

D. A. R. PRIZE ESSAY RULES MADE KNOWN

Rules for the 1923 prize essay contest in Illinois under the auspices of the D. A. R., have been sent to all school superintendents and regents of local chapters. The subject this year is "Early Travel and Methods of Transportation in Illinois." High school students are eligible to write in the contest,
and only one essay from each county is to be submitted to the State Committee, of which Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of Public Instruction, is chairman.
A number of local high school
students are expected to participate in the contest. A silver medal will be given to the student submitting the best essay in each county. The county prize essay will be sent to the State Committee, and the student winning in the state contest a handsome gold medal will be awarded, the winner of this prize will not be given a county prize medal.

MAY INTRODUCE FAR EAST LANGUAGES IN SCHOOLS

Honolulu, T. H. — Governor
Farrington has requested the territorial department of public instruction to prepare a program for the inclusion of Far Eastern languages in the public school curriculum.

"My thought is to find out
what will be necessary to place Oriental languages on practically the same basis as European foreign languages in the public schools on the mainland," Governor Farrington said. "This is what will eventually be done, because the people who do business
on this side of the world have the cause for requiring a knowledge of Oriental languages that the men of the Atlantic have of requiring a knowledge of Spanish, French or other European languages."

PORT OF MISSING MEN IN BONUS WORK

Many Strange Things Come to Board in the Day's Work—
Some Funny Others Full of Pathos.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (By A.
P.)—A port of missing men and a haven for many kinds of strange maladies is what the Illinois service recognition board is coming to be in addition to its function of paying the soldier bonus.

Queer and unexpected sensations, sole of merriment, some of madness and others of regret come drifting in with the day's mail. Many letters indicate that not a few people of the state have a faint and inaccurate idea of the board's duty and capacity.

Husbands absent without leave,
missing relatives of all kinds, applications for positions that have nothing to do with the bonus,
personal grudges whose owners
desire to pay old scores, and family difficulties mingle in the correspondence.

One man wants the board to find his long lost brother, and the following letter from him is a sample of many queer things the mail brings up:

"Wouldn't you be so kind and help me find my brother. I did not hear from him about 16
years his name is Fred Skweres
he was raised in the orphan home in Bensonville, Ill. My address is Mineral Point, Wisconsin."

Dozens of deserted wives have beseeched the board to find their run-away husbands and equal numbers of mother-in-laws demand that the bonus be paid to their deserving daughters instead of the absent veterans.

In this matter the board believes it will yet be compelled to establish a lost and found department. The board has agreed to inform wives when their husbands have been located.

Another misinformed citizen
asks the board to get him a job
"in an insane asylum."

Bundles of bonus application
blanks are to be sent far away
as Constantinople and Warsaw.
Illinois soldiers still overseas in the army of occupation will be remembered in the mailing. In reaching the soldiers in foreign countries the board will have the service of the Red Cross.

It's easy to impose upon a man who has a good disposition.

STEAMBOAT OWNER IS HELD BLAMELESS FOR LOSS OF LIVES

Authorities of Lower California Hold That Recovery Could be Made for Lost Cattle
But Not for Human Lives—Eighty Were Lost When Steamer Topolobampo Sank

(By The Associated Press)
MEXICALI, Lower California, Jan. 13.—Enrique Librau, owner, and Jose Gomez, captain, of the steamer Topolobampo, wrecked in the Gulf of California November 19, last, with the loss of more than eighty lives, have been held blameless for the disaster and released from detention at the Mexican barracks here by federal authorities. The ship was broken in two by a huge wave. Had the cargo been livestock, recovery could have been made for the value of the cattle lost, the authorities ruled, but there is no provision in the Mexican laws covering loss of human life.

The responsibility of the American interests, for whom the victims of the Topolobampo were coming to work at cotton picking in Lower California under contract, has been set aside by the labor commissioner here and other officials of the government.

The Topolobampo disaster,
which took the heaviest toll of human life in the history of Gulf of California navigation, left in-its wake one of the most pitiful conditions in southern waters.
More than 100 persons were drowned, according to Captain Gomez, whose evidence at the hearings was at variance with the estimate of eighty lives lost, made by the government officials at La Bomba.

The victims and survivors, it was stated at the government hearings, were from the ranks of the poorest classes in the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa.

Of the thirty known survivors,
some are demented by reason of suffering in the desert country after escaping from the water, as shown by the testimony in the government's hearing. Only sixty of the bodies have been taken from the water.

The Topolobampo was broken in half by a "bore wave." The incoming tides of the Gulf force
the waters of the Colorado river
back a distance of forty miles.

When the high tides fall abruptly
in the gulf, the waters of the Colorado river are turned loose into the gulf with terrific force, creating a huge swell, or "bore wave," forming a wall of water from nine to thirty feet high when it reaches the gulf.

Vessels caught in the upper reaches of the Gulf of California
are doomed to disaster, shipping experts state, when swept by a
"bore wave."

Engineering plans in connection with the extension of the Southern Pacific company's line
from Mexicali to LaBomba and for the creation of adequate and safe harbor facilities at Port La Bomba, will, by utilizing connecting deep water ways, overcome the danger of the "bore wave," engineers state.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis from Buckhorn did Saturday
business in Jacksonville.

James Guinane of Chapin was a city caller yesterday.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC NOTES

Andrey King will play the slow movement from Viotti's Concerto No. 23, at the evening service on Sunday, January 14, at Centenary church.

Mary Lois Clark sang at a meeting of the Knights of Pythias on Thursday evening. Her solo was the Aria from "Madame Butterfly."

Mrs. Forrest and Miss Horsbrough will be the special soloists at a rally service at Brooklyn church on Sunday evening, January 14th.

Mrs. Kirby, pianist and Mrs. Forrest, soprano, will give a joint recital on January 22, in Music Hall. One of the most interesting piano numbers will be the March of Rakowsky, based on the March from Berlioz, "Damnation of Faust" and recently played here by the Cincinnati Symphony. Mrs. Forrest will sing at that time an unusually lovely song still in manuscript by Ann Wakely Jackson of this city. The song, entitled "Spring Harvesting" is a beautiful setting of a poem by Wayne Gard, former student at Illinois college. The Artists series will terminate for the season with a recital on Monday, January 15th, by Bogumil Sykora, Russian cellist. This young virtuoso made his American debut in Carnegie Hall and immediately added his name to the list of real musical artists in this country. He has been compared to Godowsky, who in his turn has been called the Richard Strauss of the piano. In his own variations "Mr. Sykora achieves the impossible, playing runs in double stops at top speed which would tax the skill violinist and doing other tricks in harmonics, simultaneous ar-co and pizzicato of which ordinary players would no more dare to try than they would attempt to climb the Woolworth building on the outside. (Henry T. Pink in the New York Evening Post.) Sykora possesses nearly all the cello literature from Bach to modern composers and his program will be found to represent many styles and periods.

THE GRINDERS

(A sympathetic response to Pastor Tull's sermon last Sunday, on "The Sin of Indifference.")

For all my thought, one problem waives
Solution. Can you see
Why there should be so many slaves,
When Nature is so free?
A hopeless, human throng that craves
Her liberality?

Where food and fuel and raiment are
In such abundant store;
Thou numerous our blessings, far
More numerous the poor;
Is it not something singular,
The rich keep wanting more?

Why must our civil conduct cling
To shabby ancient creeds,
One arm forever in a sling,
One foot among the weeds?
Is Science but a stupid king—
Or a vassal to our needs?

We traverse each remote domain
Of earth by air or sea,
On commerce vultures would disdain
Consider gleefully;
Ten thousand cargoes all for gain,
To one for charity.

We gossip even across the sphere
With the help of a tiny tool;
From pole to solar highway clear
The ethereal sky is full
Of busy words—all words, I fear,
But those of the Golden Rule.

What hands exact unholy fees
In a manner most devout?
Whose welfare basely that decrees
The half must go without?
And who are they that sit at ease,
And truth and justice flout?

The Lords of Profit, Lords of Rent,
And Lords of Interest, too,
Comprise the baneful Parliament
That rules the Nation thru;
And they have blessings in extent,
But spare us precious few.

The sea, the air, the earth as fair,
The sky both night and day,
In common state are saturate
With what these ghouls purvey;
But for you and me it is not free
Till we their tribute pay.

With means to use and wealth profuse,
The people do not dare
Put forth a hand to rule their land,
Or order better fare—
Dare not their loads or moral codes
Abandon nor forswear.

Put harness guides on restless tides,
Go, tether sun and stars;
Let ether waves be willing slaves,
And yield to bonds and bars;
Wake, humble folk, throw off the yoke,
And challenge avatars!

—JOHN KEARNS.

Sure way to get right weight

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are underweight? Simply because to be underweight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S. since 1820 has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being

...a clammy-looking, You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, stronger, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a peppy, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take a little medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

SPECULATORS IN CONTROL OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Speculators for the advance were in control of today's brief session of the stock market, chief interest
again being centered in special shares with new leaders brought forward to take the place of old favorites, which have temporarily reached their zenith.

The European situation continued to be vitally disregarded
as a market factor altho postponement of the German reparations payment due January 15 to the end of the month and the prospects of an international conference on economic problems had a cheerful effect on sentiment.

Buying power was concentrated chiefly on shares of corporations which have reported good earnings and in which there are strong possibilities of early dividend action.

Strong spots were American
Linseed, common and preferred;
International Paper, Chicago
Pneumatic Tool, Cocoa Cola, Cluett-Peabody and Goodrich preferred, all up two to four points.

Anthracite carrying railroad shares were high, Delaware and Hudson rising 3 points and Lackawanna and other rails were irregular.

Foreign exchange rates went lower on a comparatively small volume of business. Demand
sterling was quoted around $4.67 1/2
and French francs again got below 7.00 cents, most of the business done around 6.95. Polish and Hungarian exchange dropped to new low levels.

The weekly clearing house
statement showed decreases of $31,772,000 in loans, discounts
and investments and $62,227,000
in reserve of members of the federal reserve bank. Aggregate reserve totalled only $497,742,000
changing in excess reserve of $24,943,130 last week to a deficit
in reserve this week of $37,012, 940.

Marked improvement was noted in most of the United States government bonds.

EXPORT BUYING BOOSTS GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Export buying of wheat, corn and oats led to higher prices here for all grain today after a hostating start. Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 1c
up with corn showing an advance of 1/2 to 1 1/2c, and oats 1/2 to 1c
up. In provisions, the outcome was a decline from a shade to 15c.

According to current gossip,
there was evidence that European acceptances of export offerings of wheat had been on a liberal scale,
decidedly in contrast with the amount of foreign buying on previous days this week. Before this information was obtained the wheat market here was temporarily depressed by general commission house selling, bearish sentiment being emphasized by assertions that the world's visible supply was very large and well exceeded requirements.

On the upward swing of wheat
prices during the latter trading renewed attention was given to talk about chances that widening of military action in Europe
might curtail production of grain and tend to increase demand for shipments from North America
even the financial conditions abroad were unstable. Dry weather adversely affecting the domestic winter wheat crop was also a bullish factor and so were complaints of freezing and thawing in central Illinois.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. In the last half of the day shorts in the corn
market found unusual difficulty

CCUNTY FAIRS OF STATE TO MEET

Local Management Notified by R. M. Davidson that Meeting Will be Held in Decatur January 7 and 8.

The management of the Morgan County Fair has received a communication from R. M. Davidson, director of the department of agriculture of the State of Illinois, stating that a meeting of representatives of all the county fairs in the state will be held in Decatur on February 7 and 8 at the Orlando hotel. Mr. Davidson requests that the local fair board send three delegates to this meeting.

At this gathering in Decatur the dates for the 1923 county fairs throughout the state will be determined. Each fair board is asked to make a report at this meeting as to how much money the members plan to use this year for music and attractions and whether or not they plan to hold any evening shows during the fair. The question of state money for the conducting of county fairs will be brought up and it is stated that there is to be a new apportionment of funds for county fairs through the state. Governor Small will be present at the meeting and will address the county fair representatives.

The local fair board is already making progress with plans for the coming year and the actual work of getting out the catalogue will be started about February 1. There is to be a new department in the fair this year known as the children's department. In this department children of the grammar and high school age can compete for prizes in fruit canning, bread and biscuit baking, fancy work, manual training, basketry and natural history.

A number of new contests have been added for this year and will come under the head of the new department. Prizes will be offered in geology for the best collection of stones, rocks and coal found in Morgan county, for the best collection of samples of woods from the native trees of Morgan county; for the best group of pictures of birds native to this county, the pictures to be cut from magazines and pasted on card board; for the best map of Morgan county with the grain products of the county glued or sewed on the map; for the best collection of pressed flowers found in the county; for the best collection of the different varieties of nuts native to the county; and for the best collection of amateur photographs including landscapes, portrait and animal pictures.

A Last Records free from obnoxious surface sounds

This illustrates the laminated construction of the New Process Columbia Records.

A—illustrates the much smoother playing surfaces which are made of a new substance over which the needle travels almost inaudibly.

B—illustrates the much harder centre cone which resists warping.

Columbia New Process Records are proving the sensation of the phonograph world. No matter what records you have been buying you have had to listen to scratching, scraping sounds that intrude above and through the music. Columbia has removed these disconcerting noises. In their place Columbia New Process Records give you an additional loveliness, exquisite tones, delicate shades of harmony previously lost in surface noises.

Columbia NEW PROCESS RECORDS

The Sturdy Six of Long Life

Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment

Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others. Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction.

If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides. Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.

Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.

Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.
